

PREFACE

Currently, in the world community, the formation of unique economic, informational, cultural, educational spaces of integration processes, the expansion of international cooperation and various languages and cultures require the training of a multifaceted multilingual personality in society, specialists of a new formation. The market is competitive not only in its field, but also in any environment, choosing a sociable employee, fluent in languages, able to follow the immeasurable flow of time. In this regard, the main goal of all educational institutions and family institutes is to train a specialist who will be able to respond to market demands. Therefore, it is not for nothing that the proverb says «Know the language of seven nations, know seven different sciences». A person who knows the language can be told that all the doors of science are open.

The proposed Kazakh-Russian-English terminological dictionary (on the discipline of Labor training) these are not only terms on specific topics, but also their interpretations - this is a dictionary in three languages, briefly and meaningfully presented in translation texts.

The terminology dictionary includes terms used in the study of the disciplines «Artistic labor» and «Labor training», where it provides significant assistance in mastering these courses.